

Dutch ReBelle

[b]Boston, MA[/b]

The true definition of a Gemini, Boston-based rapper Dutch ReBelle (b. Vanda Bernadeau) has been described as being the best of both worlds: an exotic Beauty paired with a lyrical Beast. A talented wordsmith, ReBelle, is an up-and-coming female emcee who is devoted to empowering minds through the artistry and diversity of Hip-Hop.

ReBelle has quickly become a staple on the New England music scene, performing at various venues throughout the region (Suffolk University, UMass Amherst, Jerky's and the legendary House of Blues) for various acts including mixtape heavyweight Papoose, Capone N Noreaga and Hip-Hop legend, Slick Rick.

Since joining Boston's Famous Nobodies camp in 2009 as the sole female member, ReBelle has released a solo mini-tape titled, The AppeTeaser, the first installment in the Famous Nobodies' Minitape MASSacre series. Featuring just five tracks, the 15-minute tape is an eclectic introduction to Dutch ReBelle and her immense talent. Among the tracks is the heartfelt "Leve, Kampe" (Get Up, Stand Up), a passionate letter to her homeland in the wake of the massive earthquake that devastated Haiti in February of 2010 and several freestyles including When I See You and FRAUDS (Gucci Bandana). ReBelle also appears on several tracks alongside her Famous Nobodies teammates on their recently released mixtape *ProTools and Bullsh*t*.

Demanding the crowd's attention, ReBelle is especially known for the crowd-pleasing Ketchup, an old school, call and response freestyle where ReBelle showcases her distinct flow and catchy lyrics.

While in preparation for a solo project that will feature freestyles from her weekly "Me-Style Friday" YouTube series as well as her anticipated Beautv
